Matt Barber has been with Schwebel, Goetz & Sieben since 2008. He worked as a law clerk before graduating cum laude from the University of North Dakota School of Law. Matt received his undergraduate degree in Economics from the University of St. Thomas.

Matt practices personal injury law because he likes to help people. Even though it is impossible to undo the things that have happened, Matt does everything he can to get the best results for each of his clients.

Matt's practice focus includes all aspects of personal injury litigation including car and truck collisions, motorcycle crashes and general liability cases.
